

Obama Era

Dear Mr. President

Letter 8: Final Stand

I embrace you as this nation's leader out of respect for the Great Planner King Jesus. He truly knows how the road of office living has been for you. Who can leaders truly drink truth from in this place of leading so many people? Who has the ability to fully understand the needed weight placed upon the shoulders of any who have been graced with great governing authority? Who has been there? Other leaders. But when the leaders have their disagreements or when it's time to vote, the once friendly-based office networks fall away into getting "likes" for office positions.

Power—it's what so many long for, yet they are not ready to have that leadership position. What led you to take up this major plan in shifting government details? Have you always wanted to have a face that will always be remembered for trying to build on top of a mountain, laid there, in place by the ones before? When will the race actually end? When will you truly feel that you have succeeded in what purpose you were elected?

You have succeeded. We can say this based on how you have shifted the whole nation. You have made it truly clear that one nation under God, here, is truly not given. You have made it clear that having full freedom to live, however, is killing the people. All can eat the heaviest junk food at their convenience. Take away this junk, and cancer will amazingly decrease to more than half. You want to help the nation. Help them with how they eat in this nation. Food is the obesity driving force for heavy medical and hospital assistance.

Cut the root out first. Give this new training to all of the schools. Don't take your hands off of those who turn of legal age. Train the young and old on how natural foods will be the way of health and longer living. Organic may not be the way for all, but note what's killing the people. Note what's causing major cancerous growths. Learn what the major fast-food chains are placing in their meats, and then step back and take a look at how the healthcare reformation is a band-aid relief. What must be done? A nationwide diet shift must happen. New dietary restrictions must be placed in all service orders. Learning to love the way you look—it's much more than wearing certain outfits.

The power to move in bringing major shifts has been given into your hands, and it's time to have your final moving of words that will leave a legacy with the next leader entering this office you walk in. It's a major plan to bring healing. Then you can reduce how much the families are paying when actual ways to reduce treatment are presented and fully implemented. Final stands, not warm words. The nation will learn how the body works.
